Fantastic Fantasma at Fantasyland

DISNEYLAND VISITORS---Campbell High School's "Fantasma" group, under the direction of Bill Perkins, performed recently at a special morning concert at Disneyland on the Park's Plaza Garden stage. During their visit, they also performed at Pepperdine College, where they were housed in student dormitories. The 26 singers and dancers earned the fare for their weekend trip by giving concerts. Accompanying them on their trip were technical crew members and chaperones. The group was formed last September and has attracted much favorable comment throughout the community. (More details on inside pages.)

Samuelson, of 2174 S. Abbey Lane, an accounting manager with Standard Brands, and Cook, of 1100 Monica Lane, a painting contractor, were appointed to the Planning Commission last Saturday by the City Council. They attended their first meeting on Monday. Also appointed at the same time was J. DuWayne Dickson, of 925 Bucknam, a Lockheed project engineer.

Dickson was unable to be at Monday's meeting. Samuelson fills the unexpired term of Fred Long to August 1, 1975; Cook for that of Milt Howe (Aug. 1, 1974), and Dickson that of Carl Larson (Aug. 1, 1973).

COMMISSION HAS MARATHON SESSION

Zoning draws fire

Two new planning commissioners , Jack L. Cook and Carl E. Samuelson, had an "endurance test" at their first meeting Monday when the Planning Commission was in session until after midnight in the continuing struggle to get the city's zoning ordinances in conformity with the general plan.

New state legislation requires that the zoning must be consistent with the land use element of the general plan.

On Monday night, approximately 18 zoning changes were involved in "Study Area III," between Winchester and San Tomas Expressway and from the northern city limits to the intersection of Winchester and the expressway.

As in previous hearings, many of the proposed zone changes were routine and acceptable to the property owners. But some were not, and objections were offered by those in attendance at the hearing.

DENSITY CHANGE

Much of the opposition to the proposed zone changes involved parcels in the Nido Drive area (to the rear of the Campbell Plaza Center). There are mostly four-plexes in the area and the general plan calls for medium density residential (R-2-S). However, the area is now zoned R-3-S which calls for a higher density.

Owners of the larger apartment complexes protested the zone change, maintaining that it was "down-zoning" the area. They claimed also that some of the larger complexes, because of the new density requirements, are non-conforming now and thus would be even more so if the zoning was changed.

The Planning Commission, however, overruled the objections and forwarded the R-2-S zone recommendation for the area change to the City Council.

The Commission continued action on zone changes for parcels on the south side of Rincon Avenue and also one parcel (Sanders) on Budd Avenue and several lots on both sides of Rincon Park. The other changes that would bring the area into conformity with the land use element of the general plan were approved.

OTHER APPROVALS

Prior to the zone change issue, the Commission approved the plans for Jack Knighton for a senior citizens apartment complex on South Bascom and White Oaks and also plans for an industrial building for Carl Travis at 533 Union Ave.

An industrial building for Neil Hamm at 1370 Dell Ave. also received the okay, as did the plans for Family Homes for an industrial building at 599 McGlincey Lane.

Charles Marotta received approval also for the conversion of a residence into a contractor's office at 145 Dillon Ave. The application had been pending before the Commission for months.

ZONE CHANGES

A zone change from CM:B-80 to CM:B-37 was approved for the Ralph Doetsch property at 1580 Dell Ave., but Ralph Beauchamp was denied a zone change from R-1 to C-H (highway commercial) for property at 328 Bedal Ave.

The request of George Nolte for an extension of the development schedule for a subdivision near the intersection of McCoy Avenue and Harriet Avenue was approved.

Also approved was the zone change request of Ramon R. Torres from R-1 to P-0 (professional office) at 481 N. Milton Ave. and Standard Oil received approval for a third bay at the service station at 3405 W. Winchester.

Interest centers on city budget

That the City Council intends to make some major $4.8 million tentative city budget for 1973-74 as recommended by City Manager Bob Stephens, became apparent on Monday night at the first of three budget study sessions that have been scheduled.

The tentative budget is set for adoption on Monday, June 25, just before the end of the fiscal year.

Adoption of the final budget and the setting of the tax rate will take place in August.

The agendas for the budget sessions take the massive 240-page document on a page-by-page basis.

On Monday night, the Council covered the city council, city manager, city clerk, finance, city treasurer, governmental buildings and city attorney budget allocations, with most of the concentration on the city manager's department.

It is expected that the second study session which is set for this evening at 7:30 p.m. will attract the most attention from civic organizations.

Heading the presentation will be a report of the City Advisory Goals Committee which conceivably could have an effect on the overall city budget.

As a case in point, the citizens group has placed high priority on the para-medic program for the fire department ($16,000) and the employment of a recreation coordinator ($15,000 annual salary).

Other recommendations of the goals committee, if implemented by the City Council, could alter the city's fiscal situation.

The budget as recommended by City Manager Stephens does not include any of the "goals." Stephens explains that the final budget in August can list such items, as well as projects from revenue-sharing funds.

One of the items that will be on the agenda of the study session this evening will be the request of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce for an increase of their allocation from the city, from $10,000 to $12,000.

The main "stars" of the budget session, dollarwise that is, will probably be the polcie and fire department allocations which total almost $1.5 million.

Other "pages" at bat tonight include the planning department and Youth Commission.

The final budget session is scheduled for this Friday, June 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Rusty dons 'black hat'

Councilman Rusty Hammer, describing the role he was playing as that of "the villain in the black hat" took aim at a number of items in the city's tentative $4.8 million budget in the first study session on Monday night.

Another budget session is set for this evening and one on Friday.

If necessary, a Saturday meeting will be held.

The Council expects to adopt the budget next Monday, June 25.

Hammer emphasized that he opposed the concept of a new city "division" or "department" of "general services."

The young councilman was the lone voice opposing a $525 expense item for City Treasurer Velma Olds to attend a convention and he called attention to the high health insurance premium budgeted in the department.

Hammer also suggested that it might be more economical to have a full-time attorney than a part-time one and suggested that the idea be explored.

CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY

Cuts, increases feature school district budget

Sharp cuts in several areas and increases in others marks the tentative budget adopted by the Campbell Union (elementary) School District trustees Thursday.

Total budget set was $15,136,600, with $11,945,557 of the total allocated to the general fund.

CUTS

Some items budgeted during the 1972-73 school year have been eliminated from the tentative budget presented to school officials. Final adoption will take place in early August after public hearings and discussions are held.

Eliminated from the budget presented were such items as periodicals ($3,000 was budgeted last year), textbooks (the 1972-73 budget listed $4,331), and field and athletic trips (during the past year $24,719 was allocated for field trips while athletic trips had a $4,000 listing). Also dropped was the summer recreation program which was funded in the amount of $69,600 last year.

REPLACEMENT

Equipment replacement expenses under the Books and Supplies classification were cropped. The total last year for these items was $30,378. Overall reduction in this classification was $152,326. The 1973-74 budget calls for $185,120 in spending compared to $337,446 for last year.

Services and contracts also saw sharp cuts, from $556,804 last year, to $450,500 projected for the coming year. Travel and conference expense dipped sharply from $23,776 last year to $100 listed for the upcoming school year.

HIKES

Overall hikes came in the area of certified salaries, employee benefits and classified salaries. Certified salaries jumped by $405,406, while classified salaries were up by $23,179. In addition, another allocation of $460,500 is listed as undistributed salary increases recently adopted by the board. Employee benefits say an increase of $141,413.

In other business, trustees:

Received a progress report from the District Curriculum Committee. Chairman Don Samuelson gave the report which also contained two recommendations for trustees. The first is that individual

FOR GOLD KEY FURNITURE

Planning Commission says "No-But" on sign request

In a sort of "noncommital" manner, the Planning Commission on Monday night gave "NO...BUT..." decision on a proposed sign for Gold Key Furniture and in another action asked City Attorney Bob Dempster to put in writing his interpretation on the use of variances.

Gold Key had requested a freeway-oriented sign for the eastern side of their building at 600 E. Hamilton.

The Planning Commission did not officially reject the sign. On the other hand, the Commission did not approve it either.

The recommendation to the City Council suggests that, IF the City Council approves the Gold Key sign, that certain conditions should be specified: (1) reduce the words "Gold Key" to six feet; (2) reduce the word "Furniture" to four-feet and (3) that the sign be removed if the Bethel Church property between the store and the freeway is developed.

The request for City Attorney Dempster to write about the variance situation developed from the appeal of Gold Seal Realty at 492 Nottingham Way, of a Planning Commission denial of a use permit to allow the firm to convert a residence into an office.

Gold Seal Realty, represented by Bill Smeed, a San Jose attorney and former councilman and mayor of Campbell, had appealed the ruling to the City Council.

At the council level, Dempster had suggested that a variance might be used by the real estate firm to allow the conversion. The Council then on that basis bucked the issue back to the Planning Commission.

The hearing on the variance for Gold Seal was scheduled for last Monday but was continued until July 2.

Planning staff personnel had emphasized that, based on the opinion of former City Attorney Joe Bonacina, the variance requested was not in accord with the guidelines in the zoning code.

However, Attorney Smeed suggested that Bonacina's opinion was issued in 1968 and the situation might be different at the present time.

The matter was continued to allow time for the present city attorney to submit a report.

YOUTH GROUP REQUEST TO COUNCIL

Commission seeks bike trails

Bike trails along Los Gatos Creek should be constructed by the City of Campbell, the Youth Advisory Commission has recommended to the City Council. The recommendation is contained in a letter that is on the agenda for the City Council meeting next Monday, June 25.

In addition to the off-street bike trails for the creekside, the Youth Commission also has urged that the City of Campbell cooperate with neighboring cities in the development of street routes for bicyclists between the cities.

Last week the City Council specified that $24,500 of federal revenue-sharing funds would be used for Los Gatos Creek improvement which could, city officials have unofficially indicated, include bike trails.

The City Council next Monday is scheduled to award the contract for the widening of Hamilton Avenue from Highway 17 to Winchester Boulevard.

Bids are to be opened for the street project, the largest in this city's history, at 2 p.m. this Thursday. The project, with land acquisition, is expected to cost more than $1 million.

The Council is also expected to award the contract for the bonds for Local Improvement District No. 17 (Dell-Division) next Monday.

In addition to the adoption of the city's preliminary budget of $4.8 million at Monday's meeting, the City Council may adopt a policy with respect to the neighborhood parks that could have some effect on the city's budget.

City Manager Bob Stephens said that it has not yet been officially determined, if city labor for construction of the neighborhood parks should be charged against the $10,000 allocation each park at the schools receives from the city.

CAMPBELL UNION (elementary)

Opposing employee groups tangle at board meeting

Campbell Union (elementary) School District board of trustees, meeting became the battleground for a clash between members of two opposing employee groups Thursday, where charges were leveled and tempers flared as both groups brought in the "big guns."

CHARGES

Al Browning, international representative of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, appeared in behalf of the newly formed union group. He charged that classified employees had not been adequately represented during the recent salary adjustment sessions and requested that school officials return to meet and confer.

Earlier, Gordon Martin, treasurer of the local American Federation of Teachers; told trustees that at the last school board meeting he had advised the board there would be a classified employees union formed here within the next year. "It has taken three weeks," he said.

REBUTTAL

Joe E. Starns, director of field operations for the California School Employees Association (CSEA), reviewed the history of the employee association and told trustees that the present salary agreement had been approved unanimously at a meeting of the

HOW DID IT GET THAT-AWAY?

Landlocked home in Campbell concerns family

by Pat Safford

"I don't think there's anything that can be done for us," said the Campbell matron, "but we don't want this to happen to anyone else."

As she spoke, Mrs. John Martini pointed out the large apartment complex adjacent to her fashionable ranch-style home at 633 Hacienda Ave.

The cause of the Martini's present problem is the subject of some dispute but the problem remains:

At the present time the Campbell home is surrounded on three sides by apartment developments and is, in theory, landlocked.

In addition, a vacant lot directly south of the Martini home, and jointly owned by Lee Martini and her sisters and brother, sits undeveloped and isolated. (There is no access to this property other than through the Martini's yard.)

Access to the eight room home is by way of a 40-foot wide dirt road that stretches 600 feet back to the home. The City of Campbell has easement rights to this road, although the Martini's have ingress and egress (they can drive in and out). They also are responsible for maintaining the road.

Incidents in recent months have led to the placement of a "Private Driveway" sign at the far end of the road near Hacienda Ave.

In addition, the city installed a chain across the front of the Martini property next to the apartment parking area, to help alleviate the problem of the "two lane highway" that was originally intended to be private access to the home.

The large parcel of land now occupied by the Hacienda Gardens Apartments was originally owned by the Turturici family (parents of Lee Martini).

Sale of the property to a land developer, who in turn sold off the parcel now occupied by the apartments, included the entire frontage.

Some local officials charge that the family brought the problem on themselves, or in this case, that the problem originated with Lee Martini's mother.

The Turturici family (Gaetano and Mary) had owned the eight and three-quarter ranch since the early 1900's.

Initial development of their property began with a two pump gas station. Later a fruit stand was added.

"We were right on the highway then," Lee Martini remembers, "and it seems like every weekend the fire department was out here when one of the pumps got knocked over by a car going too fast to make the turn."

Gaetano Turturici died in 1927 (in his 40's), leaving his wife and seven children.

The fruit stand and gas station slowly evolved into what later became the Big Boy Market, "biggest little store in Campbell."

Original dedication of the 600-foot strip came more than 10 years ago, according to Mrs. Martini, when the family made arrangements for a shopping center development at the site. Approval had been obtained from the city, but a series of delays slowed plans and finally borught the development to a standstill.

Some 18 years ago the custom-built home now occupied by the Martini family was constructed.

Shortly after the sale of the property now occupied by the complex, the family requested that they be allowed to move a small house onto the vacant lot adjoining

LEE MARTINI AT THE FRONT ENTRANCE TO HER HOME

City learns from past experience

Awkward was the term Bill Wren, public works director, used to describe the Martini's situation.

When the development plan was submitted, he said, the city was persuaded by the family to let the two lots and home remain.

"I tried to impress mother, daughter and developer that this was going to be an awkward situation," Wren said. Over their objections the city allowed the plan.

"I'm not surprised," Wren said of the Martini's problems.

This used to be a very typical thing, Wren said, of the property sale. The owners wanted to sell their excess property yet retain the "old home." In this case, the city required the street improvements and frontage and then made an exception, Wren continued.

As to whether this situation might arise for any other local family, Wren said it would not. "We learn from our mistakes," he said. "Now we don't allow it."

I don't begrudge anyone their position," Wren concluded, "yet I don't think anyone's at fault."

SANDRA HAYES

Wedding bells for Sandra

The garden of Villa Felice was the setting for the afternoon wedding of Sandra Hayes and Ibrahim Korgav. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard Jones.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dalton Hayes of San Jose, was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire style organza gown with lantern sleeves and a detachable train. The bodice of the gown was enhanced with point venice lace as were the deep lace cuffs. A bouffant veil secured with a band of venice lace completed her costume. She carried a large bouquet of daisies and ivy.

Kathy Marie Hayes, a cousin of the bride, attended her as maid of honor and wore a long yellow chiffon gown accented with ruffles at the neckline and bodice. Phyllis Harriman gowned in pink and Lorrie Hayes gowned in green also cousins of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Their gowns were the same style as that of the maid of honor.

Kelly Hayes of Tulsa, Oklahoma, the brides niece; and Lorinda Janes, a cousin of the bride, served as flower girls. They wore long cotton dresses trimmed with velvet daisies. Kelly's dress was green and Lorinda's was pink. All attendants carried baskets of mixed flowers.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Hayes chose a long blue flowered print dress accented with ruffles at the hem.

Ayhan Ozaras served as best man. Guests were seated by ushers Steve Hayes, Joe Pacetti, Cal Harriman and Atilla Boyla. Mathew McDonald served as ring bearer. Vocal selections were offered by Patty McDonald.

A reception for 185 guests at Villa Felice followed the ceremony.

The bride is a 1970 alumna of Camden High School and is employed by Electro-Glass in Mountain View.

Social Side

"Total evening of entertainment"

by Steve Rockwell

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" exploded on the Prentiss Brown Stage in Los Gatos on Saturday night as Phoenix Productions opened their summer play festival.

From the moment that Peter David Heth stuck his face through the top, and I mean top, of the curtain, the audience realized that they were in for a total evening of entertainment. Heth makes it a fun-filled, fast moving evening. He struts, cavorts, and most of all has fun with the show and fun with the audience and then receives a standing ovation for his efforts. Although Heth is good, he looks great because the supporting cast is so strong and plays the show with him.

In the secondary role Campbell's own Wally Gilbert shares the spotlight. Gilbert is a master of clown antics and makes a good foil for Heth. Gilbert also possesses a good singing voice which certainly helps Heth on the "Lovely" number. Anytime these two are on stage, the audience filled the auditorium with laughter especially during the "crying" scene.

Fred Hassett in the role of Lycus, the procurer; Ted Weaver, who is an absolute perfect Miles and has probably the best trained voice in the show; Gloria Stockton, who has a remarkingly funny run in the chase scene; Brian Mann, a funny, funny "dirty old man" and Diana Caperello, a very pretty girl with a very pretty singing voice, all gave the show a professional touch.

In a major role, Dennis Drew pulled every punch that was available to make the straight character of Hero fit into the fun farce. The author did not give Drew much to work with, but he has been able to make it work for him.

In a smaller role, Steve Reynolds is the dessert topping. He received exit applause each "time around". He has a juicy cameo role and plays it to the hilt. He makes the saying "there are no small roles" ring true.

The technical areas are all complete with a total finished polished look. The brilliantly bright costumes by Bobbie Harper, choreography by Barbara Valente, lighting by Kevin O'Brien, and properties by Peg Parsons all add to the finished product.

The orchestra led by Alan Haydis needs to pick up some of the tempos and some extra drum work would help the performers with their fast pacing, especially in the "girlie" dance number.

I question the use of the strobe light in the last act. Of late this effect is overused and in this instance is not effective. Also the second intermission could be eliminated as it drags the show out.

This show, however, is a total show and is one for those who are not exactly theater buffs. There is no way that anyone will not enjoy this musical. There is, as the title song lyrics say, "Something for everyone, a comedy tonight."

The show plays weekends through July 7 with a special student discount rate this Friday night. For ticket reservations, call 253-9978.

Gladys honored at retirement luncheon

Eighteen graduating classes have measured off the years for Mrs. Gladys Walsh, retiring secretary to the principal at Campbell High School.

"Each June I personally supervise the checking and arranging of diplomas to be presented at the graduation ceremony of 300-500 seniors, and then ride to the field on a truck with them to see that they arrive safely at the podium," Mrs. Walsh explains. "It wouldn't do to have any graduate disappointed."

"Watching fine young people graduate and go on to worthwhile careers is the greatest reward of my job," she says.

Mrs. Walsh was honored at a luncheon by the faculty early in the week and on Friday morning the staff, faculty, P.T.A. and friends, districtwide, gathered at the school cafeteria at a surprise reception for her.

A Canadian by birth, Mrs. Walsh came as a child with her parents to the Fresno area, later moving to San Jose. Two teenage youths from foreign countries are looking for homes in the Campbell area, according to Ellen M. Hanson, director of the local Youth For Understanding program.

Maria Jara from Costa Rica and Pauli Piri from Finland are looking for homes in the Campbell or Westmont High School areas, although others will be happily considered, according to Mrs. Hanson.

The local effort is part of the group's International Student Exchange Program which places teenage boys and girls in homes all over the world to attend one year of high school.

Maria, who will be 16 in December, hails from San Jose, Costa Rica. Her native language is Spanish although "her English is pretty good." A petite 5'1" tall, Maria is interested in piano, is a good student and likes to read.

Pauli is from a small town not far from the capital of Helsinki, Finland. He'll be 17 this November and has studied English for the past seven years. An excellent student, he is interested in Scouting, all kinds of sports (particularly skiing and cycling) and is interested in the sciences, electronics and even cooking exotic dishes.

Youth For Understanding families accept and treat the student just as a member of the family. It is preferable to place the youths in homes with children also of high school age. The only financial obligation of the host family is the feeding and housing of the student. Exchange students provide their own spending money and clothing and the YFU provides for any medical expenses that might occur.

Anyone interested in further information about the program, or about the two students, is urged to contact Mrs. Hanson at 252-7789.

OUT ON THE LIMB

with George Vierhus

THAT HOLE-IN-ONE THAT DOUG MAHRE, NEW MANager of Wells Fargo, scored in the annual Chamber of Commerce golf tournament was sensational and, obviously, set a record. (How many hole-in-ones have you had...Or even seen, for that matter?)

It was the first time that a hole-in-one had been scored in the five CofC golf tourneys that have been held.

But this year's tournament, of which Joe Cuffaro was chairman, also had another first.

For the first time, women participated in the tournament.

And it is not because the women's lib movement has finally rubbed off on the Chamber of Commerce in Campbell.

It was because Ed (Godfather) Fabbri, CofC prexy, thought those women golfers who were affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce should be especially invited.

However, the response to the invitation was not overwhelming.

Only two gals played in the tournament.

OF COURSE, THE TWO WOMEN WERE OUTSTANDING.

They were real super.

True we may be a trifle prejudiced.

One of the gal golfers, Bobbie Luoto, has long been one of our favorites both on and off the golf course.

And we think a great deal of the other feminine golfer who played in the tournament.

We have been mighty fond of her for many years.

For the record, it was our Dorothy who was Bobbie's partner in the tournament.

They both shot quite well as Homer Hyde and Don Hebard, who were their opponents in the foursome, will testify.

Homer and Don lost.

There were no special awards for the girls. They competed for the trophies on the same basis as the men. Neither one picked up a prize for their efforts on the 18 holes.

However, Bobbie's husband, Phil, who played in another foursome, won the trophy for low gross.

Dorothy's husband, on the other hand, did not win anything.

But what else is new?

TOO OFTEN OFFICIAL ACTS OF A CITY COUNCIL are impersonal and sort of cold.

After all, it is a little difficult to put warmth into any city ordinance.

But we thought an action taken by the Campbell City Council recently illustrated that the councilmen in Campbell have not yet lost their personal contact with the community.

We refer to the rejection of the resignation from the Parks and Recreation Commission that Hank Cary had submitted.

Hank has been selected by IBM to attend a year-long institute in Burlington, Vermont and with regrets had submitted his letter of resignation for the P&R Commission on which he had served since 1968.

Hank said it would be a long commute at best, but he intended to re-apply for the commission upon his return.

Unanimously (and with Chairman Edith Morley and fellow park commissioners previously concurring) the City Council rejected the resignation. They indicated that the commission probably could operate with six members for a year without the city roof falling in.

It was an "official" gesture of appreciation and recognition for Hank's tremendous service to his community in park development program starting with the bond campaign in 1967.

Hank, who was present, was touched by his "rejection" and emphasized that he was flattered by it.

And he was surprised by the council's action also.

Ostensibly he was in attendance at the meeting to receive the traditional certificate of appreciation that had been prepared and suitably framed.

So there was one casualty.

Because of the Council action, the certificate of service was not used.

But nobody seemed to mind.

SOMEHOW BACK IN 1970 WHEN THE FEDERAL CENsus was taken, almost a 1000 people in town shouldn't have been there.

Details about these lost souls are missing. But a letter recently from the Bureau of Census to the City Council reported the discrepancy.

The letter informed the city officials, the 1970 figure of 24,770 should have been 23, 797.

The letter added that the proper authorities were being notified of the change in count.

Since the federal census there have been a number of special ones taken and the official current city population exceeds the original 1970 count by far.

These special counts are taken periodically by the state department of finance upon request of a city. Most state subventions are based on population figures.

The city must pay for these official population counts but the state subventions amount to about $16 per person.

But we are still curious what those 073 persons were doing in town when the feds were counting.

AT THE LAST CITY COUNCIL MEETING, BY A DIVIDed vote the council decided to put $113,414 of federal revenue-sharing funds into park development.

Under a stipulation of the federal government, the city has to specify how funds received through the revenue-sharing program from Jan. 1, 1973 to June 30, 1973 will be used. The parks got the dough by a 3-2 vote in a rather interesting give-and-take action among the councilmen. (Incidentally, the city had received $230,000 last year.)

City Manager Bob Stephens had listed a number of projects that could be financed by federal revenue-sharing funds. These projects totalled $1,135,000. But only $113,414 was available.

So the councilmen had a "lot of fun" setting priorities, so to speak.

Obviously it was a little complicated to get a meeting of the minds, when more than 90% of the suggested items (dollar-wise) had to be eliminated.

But that really was not our point.

Another of the federal stipulations is that a legal notice must be published listing the projects that will be financed from revenue-sharing funds.

Some time ago The Press in a "memorandum for the media" was notified by the City of Monte Sereno how that city was going to spend its revenue-sharing allocation of $6,643.

To wit: "part payment for construction of an addition to the city office building...to provide office space required by increased population and correspondingly increased city employees and city operations."

That's quite a contrast with Campbell's park development of $113,414.

Monte Sereno plans to have covered all the communication bases in the memo to the media. It was sent to 26 different ones.

We noticed that the list contained 14 radio stations.

Did you know that San Jose had that many?

Anyway Monte Sereno followed the letter of the law.

All of us media people now know the good people of that city plan to spend their $6,643 windfall.

SPEAKING OF MEDIA, RECENTLY A LETTER CAME addressed to the "city desk, Campbell Press" from the "Kids to Camp, Inc." in San Jose.

The letterhead noted that "Kids to Camp, Inc." was "a non-profit organization dedicated to providing camping experiences for the children of Santa Clara County."

The letter reported that the annual drive for funds was starting and it was hoped that we would help them publicize thus serving more underprivileged children.

The letter pointed out that unlike other similar campership programs, the "kids to camp program is aimed primarily at those not only on welfare but in the low income brackets as well.

Now, we haven't anything against radio or television people. Some of the nicest persons we know are in those fields.

But we thought it was a little short-sighted on the part of the kids-to-camp people to talk about broadcasting time in the communication to newspapers...

For example...Our drive is not in competition with their efforts as far as solicitation for broadcasting time is concerned..." and later..."With this in mind, I am hoping that you will use the enclosed broadcast material as often as possible..."

And the enclosures had instructions like this: "Reading time, 10 seconds..." ...post office box, six-0-0-two, San Jose, nine-five-one-five-0."

We find no fault with the Kids-to-Camp people suggesting broadcast material and specifying reading time.

But that approach is not the best to use when contacting newspapers.

It goes over all right.

Like a lead balloon.

POLITICAL COMMENT---A NUMBER OF DEMOCRATS have already been singled out as potential candidates for the governor's race more than a year away.

Among them is Congressman R. Waldie (D-Calif.)...

How do we know?

Although Waldie does not represent Campbell, we have been getting franked mail from Congressman Waldie at an increasing pace in the last few months.

And we think the pace is quickening.

Editorial

A judgment call

The City Council of the City of Campbell has begun the study of the $4.8 million budget that has been presented by the city manager for the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Study sessions will be held during the month at which the traditional blue pencil will eliminate some of the recommended items.

By the same token, it is conceivable that additions will be made by the councilmen.

According to the time table that has been established, the preliminary budget will be adopted on June 25, after a series of study sessions have taken place.

However, it will not be until August when the final assessment figures are released and the closing balances are firm before the final budget will be adopted.

At that time, the tax rate for the city will be set.

There are a number of factors involved this year that make the 1973-74 budget one of the most important, fiscally speaking, in the history of the city and have placed an added responsibility on the shoulders of the councilmen.

For example:

1. The city is in the most healthy financial position in its 22 years of existence.

For that reason, more ideas and suggestions have been submitted for spending money than at any time in the past.

2. In addition to regular income, there has been a "windfall" of almost $400,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds that have been designated by council policy for capital improvement projects.

3. Recommendations made by the 70-member citizens advisory goals committee have designated priorities for the various capital improvement projects that have been proposed, as well as other allocations.

4. The special purposes for which a specific tax increase has been levied for the past three years (i.e., completing the city hall) have been completed, thus eliminating the need for this additional levy, unless other special uses are approved.

BUT, obviously, the basic question that faces the City Council this year is not a new one.

It is one that has faced tax-levying agencies from the beginning.

Over-simplified, it is:

How can the civic improvements apparently desired by the citizens be achieved and still reduce the tax rate which is also a desire of the citizens?

In a situation like that, of course, there is no way to please all segments of the community.

So the councilmen must use their own best judgment.

After all, they were elected for that purpose.

"MOTHER EARTH"

On Friday night, I attended the opening night performance of "Mother Earth" presented by the Centerplayers. The musical review explores today's problems such as population explosion, ecology, legal suicide, and others. The show offers little insight to the problems and no truths are arrived upon.

It depends on brilliant performers which in total this production does not have. Although it is always a pleasure to see Patty Bobbit, Connie Howard, Zoe Caspers and Patti Arnold, the basic material in the vehicle is not worth their talents. John Gunn is certainly a master when it comes to set design. It is always fun to go to the Old Town Theater and see what new creation he has come up with. He has not let us down with this design. Also enjoyed the rock group, Mose, which accompanied the show.

"FORUM"

On Saturday night, "Forum" finally opened. The most exciting element in the show besides the master clown performances of Peter David Heth, Wally Gilbert, Fred Hassett, Steve Reynolds, Gloria Stockton, Dennis Drew, Ted Weaver, Brian Mann, and Diana Caperello were the costumes by Bobbie Harper and the exquisite make-up design by Betty Wickland. It's nice to see some imagination again. The "Sparkle Plenty" props from Peggy Parsons and the technical direction by Ed Howie were also well presented. The show is a total audience pleaser and the main comment from the audience was that they had never laughed so much in one show.

Charles Spoeri, a former "Forum" lead, "Innovative, moving all the time."

Katie Lavender, soon to direct "The Crucible," "I've seen the play before and never really enjoyed it until now."

"OH DAD, POOR DAD"

On Sunday I ventured to Soquel and saw "Oh Dad, Poor Dad," at the Staircase Theater. I had trouble understanding why this play has received such universal comment. Especially when I knew that the play had originally starred Bobby Morse, Barbara Harris, and Hermoine Gingold in the lead roles.

I would like to comment on this really wonderful charming theater. It is a nice size and well put together. It's a shame that there is not a theater like that here in the Santa Clara Valley. Next up for them is "Play It Again Sam" with Peter David Heth.

UP AND THERE

I understand that understudy Lee Garay stopped the show when she did the "Halloween" number on Saturday in "Applause." Kathy Speilberger also danced away with the prize doing the title number. Only two more weekends for the show. Laurie Ricketts will be playing the role of Margo Channing usually essayed by Roberta Viscovich on Friday.....Kathy Morgan and Kitty Johnson, cast in "Our Town" now rehearsing for a July opening in the Saratoga Civic.....Anita Nethercutt will play Elizabeth Procter in "The Crucible"...."Seven Year Itch" up next for ART.....San Jose Unified's "Funny Girl" auditions on Monday and Tuesday mornings in the Willow Glen High cafeteria.....Campbell High is casting "Paint Your Wagon" this week.

The PruneYard

PruneYard merchants are understandably excited about the visit of Frank McGee of NBC on Saturday. McGee will be supervising some of the filming which will culminate in a television special on July 31 at 10 p.m.

Got two interesting viewpoints on shopkeeping from Carol Milligan and Lillian Burkholder of Stough's Gifts. Carol said keeping things in the store is much like keeping house, while Lillian claims every day is like Christmas--opening something new every day.

Dave Rudolph of Burn's Bootery says the merchants association is in the process of selecting names for the many corridors of the PruneYard, with an eye to keeping with the overall theme of the center.

HAWAIIAN SHOW

Quite a show they're having at Beyond the Reef--Miss Hawaii is flying in to participate. A trip to Hawaii will be given as a prize, as well as merchandise orders.

Addie Raymond was thrilled at the response to her first trunk show--a promotion which isn't done too often and is planned again for September. By the way, Addie is certainly enjoying her postcards--seems she asks customers who are taking trips to drop her a line--and has received cards from Greece and other European countries.

The Santa Clara County Youth Band, which is sponsored largely by contributions of PruneYard merchants, will be back to play on Saturday.

Fantasma has fun-filled Disneyland trip

by Sandy Mann

Fantasma, a jazz-pop singing group from Campbell High School, and a name that by now has become familiar to readers of The Campbell Press, flew down to Malibu Beach last Friday, June 7, to perform at Pepperdine University. From there, they were driven to Disneyland, where the group performed before a large Saturday crowd for their final performance of the year.

The Disneyland performance was the culmination of nine months of working, rehearsing, and raising the $2,500 necessary to finance their trip down south, which began as a near-impossible hope for the group last September.

Fantasma has performed previously at various places in the Campbell and San Jose area, and has held two full-length fund-raising concerts in preparation for their Disneyland performance.

The group of 26 singers and dancers, along with various technical crew and chaperones took off from SJ Airport at 2:30 p.m. Friday afternoon. Arriving at the beautiful Pepperdine University after a hectic bus ride through L.A. traffic, Fantasma had just enough time to change clothes, gobble a quick meal, and set up their equipment before they hopped on stage and began the hour and a half of music and dance, all smiles and full of "energy".

From there, they retired to the Pepperdine dorm, and had five hours of sleep to carry them through eighteen hours of traveling, performing and walking through Disneyland the next day.

At 10:45 the next morning, Fantasma began their performance in the Plaza Gardens on Main Street, Disneyland. The band warmed up with "Make Me Smile", and "Beginnings", both CHICAGO tunes. Both the pieces sounded great, partly a result of the marvelous acoustics in the semi-open stage area. Bill Branson, the drummer and leader of the band was particularly good, and did an astonishing drum solo.

When the Fantasma singer stepped on stage, everyone seemed sure, professional, and extremely happy to be doing what by then came naturally--performing. "Time and Love", the first song, had the audience almost as happy and excited as they were themselves. The emotion present during Lorrie Bryant's solo, "Let Me Be The One", was almost visible.

They attracted so much attention that when all the tables were full, people stood captivated in the sun on the outskirts of the plaza for the duration of the performance. The group concluded their performance with "Spinning Wheel", sung by Richard Smith as an encore for their persistant audience. The time from twelve noon to closing was theirs to enjoy as they liked.

A tired and sleepy Fantasma arrived back at Pepperdine about 2:10 early Sunday morning, and after some delay, the others arrived to let them back into their dorms. Most fell into bed, exhausted, around 3 a.m. Breakfast began at eight.

They arrived back at San Jose Airport at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, June 9th, tired but happy. Things were a bit rough on the plane ride home on account of some "clear air turbulence" encountered while in flight.

Tom Gabbord, student leader and lead singer in Fantasma, will be attending Pepperdine University next year on a scholarship. Bill Branson, drummer, and also a senior, was encouraged to apply to the University with a good possibility of a scholarship, and all of Fantasma was invited to be a part of the private Christian School come graduation.

Bill Perkins, music director at Campbell High, is creator and director of the group. He plans to continue leading the group throughout the next school year.

CAMPBELL HEADSTART PROGRAM CLASS OF '73

WHEN DO WE GO TO THE PICNIC?

Five camping programs planned for summer

Trips for the young adventurer have been planned by the Youth Science Institute and the program will include those from eight to 18.

Offerings are:

July 3 & 5–B-Schamp 1, for 10 to 12 year olds, class at Alum Rock Park at 9 a.m. Trip July 7 to 14, $65, members, $75 non-members. This Schamp is for the more experienced youngster who likes a face to face challenge with a mountain. The hikes average from five to six miles a day. Once the young adventurers are in the back country, base camps will be set up from which daily hikes will be taken. The climbing, hiking, and ecological instruction is designed to challenge the strength and intellect of the B–SCHAMPER.

BEGINNERS

July 5 & 10–Mini Schamp 1, for 8 to 10 year olds, class at Daves Avenue School, 1 p.m. Trip July 11 through 16, $50 members, $60 non-members. This Schamp is designed for the younger and less experienced youth, and allow the child to explore nature at his own pace. A base camp will be set up following a short hike, after which six days will be spent exploring the surrounding area. A one night backpack will be optional.

SUPER SCHAMP

July 10 & 12 Super Schamp, for 13 to 18 year olds, class at Alum Rock Park 9 a.m. Trip July 14 through 22, $65 members, $75 non-members. For those junior John Muirs, this will be an extended backpack trip of 60 + miles. We will cover a large area and see some of the most beautiful country in the world. The tentative plan is to travel from Kennedy Meadows to Tuolumne Meadows.

SECOND CHANCE

July 17 & 19 A-Schamp 2, for 10 to 12 year olds, class at Alum Rock Park 9 a.m. Trip July 21 through 28, $65 members, $75 non-members. If you missed this Schamp in June, here is another chance. This is the easiest of the Schamps. The hikes are short and easy, but still have the adventure of the other Schamps.

BACK PACKING

July 24 & 26 B–Schamp 2, for 10 to 12 year olds, class at Alum Rock Park. Trip July 29 through August 5, $65 members. If you can't make the July 7 B-Schamp, here is another opportunity for adventure in the back country. The five to six mile hikes daily are a great way to stay in shape this summer! For information about one of the programs contact Fred Avilez at 258-4322.

Men needed for foster grandparent program

Betty Manley, recently appointed director of the county Foster Grandparent Program, has put out a call for more senior citizens to take part in the program.

"We can still use 25 more and we need Foster Grandparents badly," said Mrs. Manley..

The program, begun a year ago, is operated with federal funds by Catholic Social Service, a United Fund Agency.

Grandparents work in the pediatrics ward of Valley Medical Center, at the Ming Quong Children's Center, and the Children's Shelter of Juvenile Court and Probation Department.

To take part, individuals over age 60 must have an annual income of $2,100 or less. They spend two hours a day with each of two children, for a total of 20 hours per week. They are paid $1.60 per hour plus a mid-day meal and transportation costs, if necessary.

For more information contact Mrs. Manley at 243-0994.

Over 250 Campbell students are looking for work this summer, according to Debbie Havens, director for the Chamber of Commerce Youth Employment Service (YES).

These Campbell youths are looking for any type of work from one day to one week or longer. "Everyone could use an extra pair of hands," said Debbie.

If you have a job for a Campbell student contact Debbie from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, at 378-1666.

Fall openings announced

Applications for fall admission to California State University, San Jose, will be accepted until August 1, according to Clyde Brewer, director of admissions and records.

Although the initial application filing period ended last November, Brewer said all qualified applicants will continue to be accepted until academic major quotas are filled.

Freshmen applicants who file and complete applications by June 29 will be able to attend one of two special orientation and registration sessions on campus this summer.

Applications are available at high schools, community colleges and the University's Admissions Office, located on the first floor of the library building at the corner of San Fernando and Fourth streets.

FUTURE FORESTERS---These future forest rangers gather around Tom Smith, park management instructor at West Valley College, for an initial orientation of the duties they will perform this summer at Yosemite National Park. A total of eight students from West Valley's park management program were chosen to participate in this unique program, worked out by the National Park Service and the college, to enable the students to work as forest ranger trainees. From left to right, Roger McCampbell, Smith, Dyan Phillipe, Warren Phillips, Jim Riley, and Jim Smouse. Three other students participating are Chuck Ward, Sandy Smouse and Dave Sutton.

RANGER TRAINEES

"We'll be out on our own"

Eight West Valley College students will embark on a unique adventure this summer when they travel to Yosemite National Park to act as forest ranger trainees.

The arrangement was worked out cooperatively by the National Park Service and the college's park management program. Tom Smith, park management and physical education instructor, has been employed by the park service as a wilderness ranger. The eight students will be under his direction, and will be responsible for maintaining trails and interpreting the wilderness area to visitors.

NOT IN IT FOR MONEY

The eight students, which include two young women, were chosen after an extensive screening process. Smith noted that those chosen "were the elite of those who applied." And he further added, "they're not after this for the money." The students will receive only $4 a day.

Smith explained that the students' main jobs will be: interpretation, including visitor contacts, informal campfires, basic natural history and trail information; operation of the wilderness permit system; maintenance, including cleaning of campsites and trails; patrolling of trails; and winter trail signing. The latter is done each summer in order to prepare trails for the winter ski season. The students also will educate the public about basic law enforcement and park policies.

BREAKING TRADITION

Women have begun to break into this once traditional field of "men only" forest rangers. Student Dyan Phillipe believes she will have no trouble serving as a ranger. "It will be a new and very exciting experience for me. I don't think people will have trouble accepting me as a ranger, but I will have just to wait and see what reactions I do encounter."

The eight students will operate out of the Ostrander Lake and Buck Camp regions of the park. From July 1 to Labor Day, the students will work alone or in partners patrolling and restoring trails in this backcountry region. Many times they will be out of the main camps for a week at a time. All eight believe this experience will be helpful in developing their own character. As one said, "we'll be out on our own. If we blow it, we have no one to rely on but ourselves."

Beauty Queen appears in Campbell this week

The beauty queen, making a personal appearance here this week, was "given away" by her family when she was nine years old.

Miss Hawaii, Marlene Kehaulani Kalahiki was given to her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kalahiki, who she now calls, "Mom and Dad."

CUSTOM

Long a Hawaiian custom, when a family is too large, or not financially able to cope, one or more children are "given away" to a relative or friend.

Marlene, 22, is appearing here at the PruneYard Shopping Center where she'll demonstrate the Hawaiian "hula" and take part in fashion shows planned for the King Kamehameha Festival, sponsored by Beyond the Reef (a division of Flotsam of California, Inc.). The festival begins today and runs through Saturday at the Campbell center.

CONTEST

For four years Marlene lived on the island of Kwajalein and in 1967 was named "Miss Kwajalein." When she left the Marshall Islands, she accepted employment by a firm on the island of Kauai in Hawaii and it was here that she won the Miss Kauai competition and then went on to win the title of Miss Hawaii.

The dark eyed beauty's first trip to the mainland came as she represented Hawaii in the Miss America Pageant.

TRAVELS

Since winning the title she moved to the island of Oahu and the city of Honolulu, where she was employed by Hawaiian Airlines. Already she has visited such cities as Dallas, St. Louis, Chicago, and Detroit, as well as such countries as Canada, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan. In the offing is Australia, Mexico, and possibly, before her term is over, Europe.

Marlene stands five feet, five inches tall, weighs 112 pounds and is of Hawaiian/Chinese/American Indian/French/German/Spanish and Irish ancestry. Miss Hawaii is engaged and hopes to "tie the knot" in about a year.

Mountain of desks

Last Friday the Cayton boys, Brooks, 6, and Chris, 8, tried out desks at the Campbell Union (elementary) School District corporation yard. Their mother, Peggy, looks over the hundreds of desks still available at the Harrison Street facility. The sale, which began at 7 a.m. last Friday featured hundreds of obsolete and surplus items offered for sale by the school district. As for the Cayton boys...they left their desks at school Thursday afternoon for summer vacation and were back in similar ones Friday. Their mother bought three.

by Doug Brooner

It's all tied up in the Majors, thanks to Willow Glen Optimist as they gave first half champ Moose Lodge their second defeat 4-3 in the Sunday feature game. Optimist went into the bottom of the sixth leading 4-0 but Jeff Rymer's ninth homer of the season and Joe Cucchiara's fifth homer of the year with one on, spoiled winning pitcher Mike Sullivan's bid for a shutout.

The winning run for Optimist was scored in the top of the sixth when Kirk Nolte doubled against the fence to score David Hill.

Breuners won their fourth game in six starts 3-1 over Fontanetti's as Brian Raust pitched a five hitter and struck out nine.

Leading hitters for Breuners were Mark Izatt and John Pokriots. Robins kept pace with the Pack as Burney Glasuer bested Curt Aure and Campbell Lumber 2-0.

In the Minors National League San Jose Optimist defeated 7th Street Tires 12-9 to move two games above the rest. Vance Garland hit a homer for the winners while Don Nichols and Scott Brown hit solo shots for the losers.

John White, first half champs in the American League just keeps rolling along as they won their sixth in a row 5-2 over Campbell Press.

Girl wins trip to Germany

Because she was such a good student in German, Elaine Marchesi, Westmont graduating senior, will spend a month's all-expense-paid vacation in Germany this summer.

Elaine left Monday for Nuremberg, where she will live with a German family, attend high school classes, and participate in a number of cultural exchange activities including sightseeing trips and a four-day stay in Berlin with German schoolmates.

Although she had no previous experience or background in German, she completed a four-year course in two years and this month placed first in a national contest. The prize was the trip to Germany from New York paid by the German Pedagogical Exchange and the German government. The tab for the trip from San Jose to New York was picked up by the Northern California Chapter of German Teachers.

Other Westmont students showed their excellence in German, too, by placing in the top five percent or above runner-up place in the national contest, reports teacher, Miss Irmgard Hunter. They are: Dianna Zimmerman, Claudia Gierbach, Els VanHout and Harald Ziemathis.

Letters to the Editor

GRADUATION

Dear Editor:

'Twas the 12th of June, '73, and I'm sure some parents (and maybe some students) will agree–that–Graduation at Campbell High could have been much better–why?

Some parents had completely forgotten. Seniors were still graduating they hadn't begotten".

I'm a parent of a graduated '73 Senior who was shocked at the manners of the parents leaving during the entire ceremony after his or her child's name had been called, and they not only left noisily, some congregated in front of our particular section of stadium seats and happily and vociferously discussed their personal post-graduation plans.

I congratulate the Seniors on their exemplary good behavior throughout the entire ceremony, and hats off to the Principal and Senior Counselor for keeping their "cool" throughout.

Muffler miseries

The noise of a faulty muffler led to the arrest of two men here last week. Campbell patrolmen stopped the car at Hacienda and Virginia Avenues.

Arrested was Al J. Breschi, 19, 230 San Tomas Rd. He was charged with carrying a concealed fire arm and cited for several traffic violations.

During a routine warrant check, police learned Breschi was also wanted on two felony counts of forgery.

A companion, Richard Louis Brown, 28, 1153 W. Hacienda Ave., was also arrested at the scene on charges of possession of marijuana.

Three men stop car, beat driver

Recovering at Valley Medical Center is a young man seriously injured when he was attacked by three men after they forced his car off the road near Hamilton Avenue at San Tomas Expressway.

According to reports, Anthony C. Pool, 21, 4163 Leigh Ave., San Jose, was driving along Hamilton Avenue with his girlfriend when another car, containing the three men, pulled alongside. According to the witness, the men shouted obscenities and finally forced the car off the road.

When Pool left the car, it was reported, he was beaten and kicked by the trio before they fled.

A man, hearing the screams of the woman, ran to a nearby service station and phoned for help.

The young man was unconscious when officers arrived. He was admitted to the medical center, suffering from a concussion, lacerations and possible multiple facial fractures.

VALEDICTORIAN---Mrs. Carolyn King was the valedictory speaker at the ninth graduating class of West Valley College last week. The mother of three, Mrs. King maintained a 3.9 grade point average during her studies. A total of 875 students participated in the graduation program at the Saratoga campus.

Campbell home - a problem

the Martini home. The idea was to have her aged mother occupy this house. This could not be accomplished when the Martini's learned that, according to existing regulations the home could be no more than 10 years old. Mrs. Martini's mother died in April of 1972.

OWNERS OF THE CUSTOM BUILT HOME ENCOUNTER NEW PROBLEMS

As the problems of being so closely situated to an apartment complex became apparent, the family negotiated the purchase of a lot on Leigh Avenue and planned to move their home there.

This idea was also abandoned when they were told that the total cost of having their home moved would be $37,000.

Last year the Martini family placed their home on the market. More than 30 individuals were shown the home before it was taken off the market. The real estate salesman who showed the home for the Martini's bears out the claim that the home and property could not be sold for a reasonable price.

The same home situated on a residential street could be sold easily, according to Steve Hanley of the Van Vleck Realty, Camden office. "The only people interested in seeing the property were those planning apartment developments," he said. The easement problems further complicated the property, he said, and after 90 days the listing was withdrawn.

When the apartment development was approved, Mrs. Martini says she visited city hall to remind them, "Don't forget we're back here."

Now two years and many problems later, Lee Martini hopes they haven't.
